

Grant increases school security

MICHAEL J. MULLEN / STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Officials gather Thursday at Scranton Police Headquarters to discuss plans for three Scranton high schools to use a U.S. Department of Justice Community Oriented Policing Services grant to increase security. Digital recording cameras will be installed at Scranton, West Scranton and Bishop Hannan high schools. From left: Lt. Len Namiotka; Kathy Carrera, Scranton grants manager; Nancy Hlavaty, Scranton School District curriculum instructor; Scranton Police Chief David Elliott; Bishop Hannan High School principal James Marcks; and Scranton School District's Michael Sheridan.